The Consortium national de formation en santé (CNFS)

The CNFS is a pan-Canadian group of 11 universities and colleges that offer French-language education in various health disciplines, as well as regional partners that facilitate access to these training programs across the country.

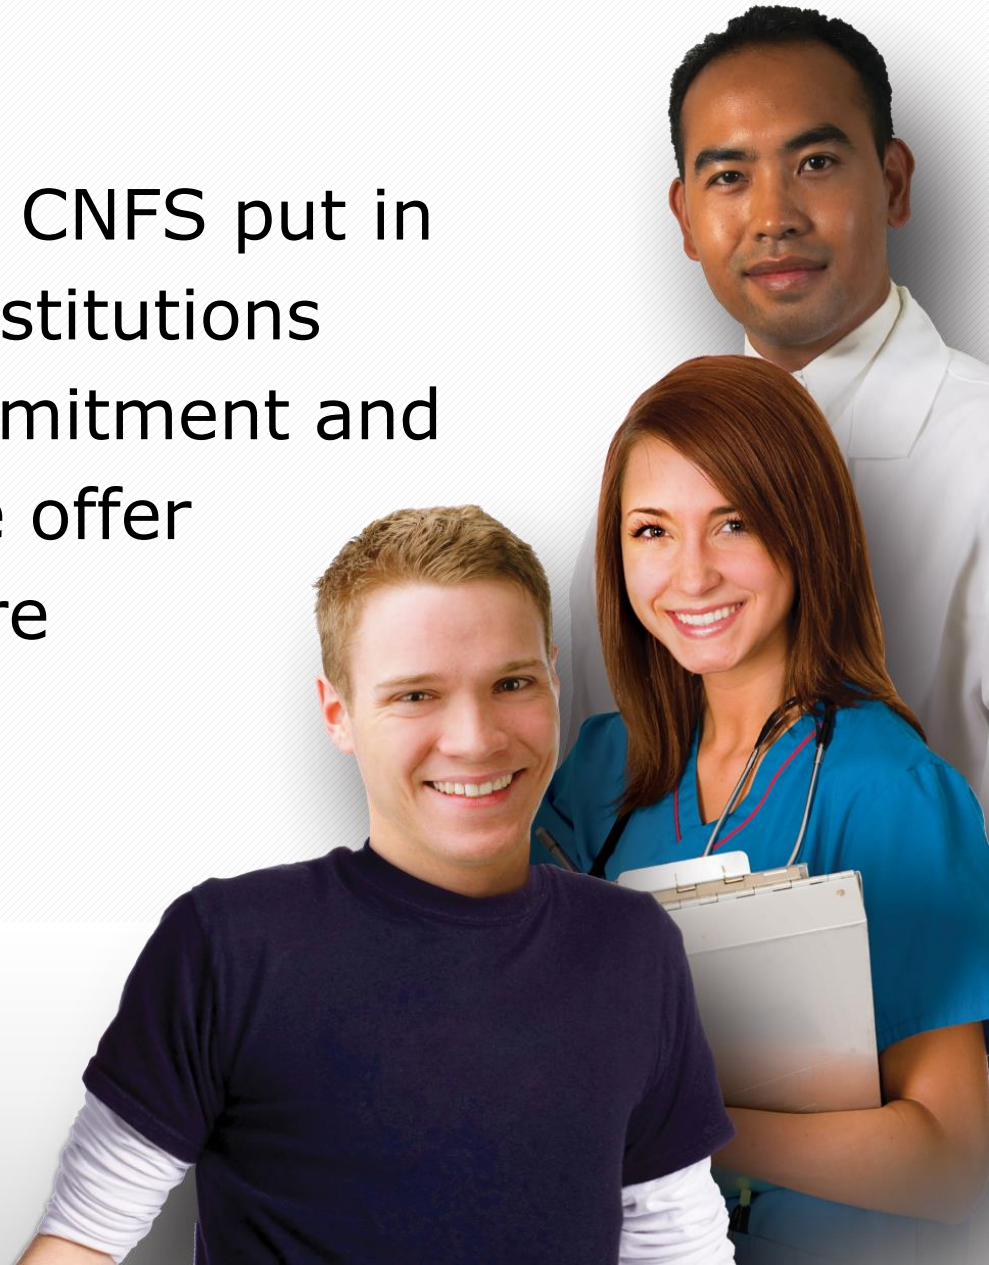

Since April 1, 2015, the CNFS has been operating under the umbrella of the Association des collèges et universités de la francophonie canadienne (ACUFC). The CNFS contributed greatly to the creation of the ACUFC and has retained its corporate identity and operational model within the new association.

CNFS Member Institutions and Regional Partners

The strategy of the CNFS put in place in member institutions for developing commitment and leadership in active offer for future healthcare professionals.
